WALK-OUT OF VARIOUS INDUSTRIES THREAT
OF LABOR LEADERSAll Police On Furlough Called Back to Duty In New

STREET CARS ATTACKED

Revolvers Used By Mob and Many Passengers Have Narrow Escapes
From Flying Missiles

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—While continued violence in the traction strike led authorities to summon back to the city all policemen on furlough, and to press into service the "rookies" from the police school of instruction with only five weeks training, labor leaders proceeded today with their efforts to tie up various branches of industry on a systematic walk-out. Their efforts met success at a branch office of the Adams Express company, where 50 drivers went on strike, demanding an increase in wages but stating that they were also acting in sympathy with the traction strikers. Employers throughout the city feared that this action was the forerunner of a general strike of teamsters.

The traction company answered the threat with the declaration that many of the strikers were abandoning the struggle, "that was hopeless from the outset."

STREET CARS ATTACKED.

Shots Fired and Passengers Have Some Narrow Escapes.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Serious violence marked the opening of the second week of the traction strike early today. Elevated trains on both the east and west sides were attacked with revolvers, bricks, bottles and stones. Many passengers had narrow escapes from being seriously injured, in one instance a bullet lodging in the woodwork of an elevated car a short distance from a passenger's head.

Windows were shattered and persons in trains thrown into panic. In every instance, however, the attackers succeeded in making their escape before the police could reach the roofs of the buildings from which missiles were thrown.

Efforts to resume surface car traffic on a larger scale than has been attempted since the strike went into effect was hampered today by pieces of wood and bits of metal placed in the underground trolley slots by strike sympathizers. At 110th street and Lexington avenue, iron hooks were found jammed in the slot. Pieces of wood were wedged in at Fourteenth street and Eighth avenue and at 23rd street and Seventh avenue. Traffic on the subway and elevated lines was normal early today although the congestion was marked because of reduced service on the surface lines. Hundreds crowded the down-town platform of the various stations and many were left standing as trains, packed to the limit, passed by with closed doors.

The New York Central and New Haven roads continued to accommodate large numbers of Bronx residents who ordinarily reach their places of business by subway, elevated or surface lines. Extra police were detailed to handle the crowds at the Grand Central terminal.

Jitney buses thronged the cross-town streets and did a rushing business at the ferries.

There were 65 union railway cars in operation in the Bronx at 7 a. m., a big increase over the number yesterday.

The refusal of the union railway officials to allow strikebreakers to choose their own routes caused friction at the West Farm barns. Several men took off their uniforms and quit, admitting that they did not intend to work on "lean" runs while fellow strikebreakers waxed rich on the company's nickels on the busy routes.

The public service commission today continued its probe into the cause of the strike on the Third avenue surface system, the hearing having recessed to give Louis Fridiger, attorney for the carmen's union, an opportunity to consult with Organizer Fitzgerald of the Amalgamated Association.

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—It has been learned on good authority that a tug left Boston early today to act as a convoy for a German submarine merchantman reported about 400 miles east of Nantucket and which is believed to be headed for New London or possibly Boston. It was reported today that the Boston Towboat company has received a wireless message from the submarine and dispatched a tug to pilot the German boat.

WARNING SOUNDED
AS G. O. P. STARTS
NEGROES TO NORTHDemocratic State Chairman
Sends Out Hot Tip to All
County Chairmen.Colonization of Floaters in Doubtful States Predicted in 1916.

By David W. Bowman.

Warnings against colonization of negro floaters by the republican national forces has been sounded by the democratic state executive committee, every county chairman in the state getting a letter this morning from State Chairman William L. Finley.

The basis of the warning is to be found in a hot tip sent to Finley by a county chairman in Kentucky, who noticed the agents shipping large numbers of colored voters, who would have no strength in Kentucky, to close or doubtful states like Ohio and Indiana, where every vote has some potential possibility. In his circular chairman Finley reprints this extract from the message of the Kentuckian:

I deem it worthy to call your attention to the fact that negroes are being shipped out of Kentucky into Indiana, Ohio and Illinois, ostensibly to work on railroads.

I am reliably informed that between 700 and one thousand have been taken from this city and county within the past sixty days. Sixty-five shipped yesterday over the traction line going to Evansville, Ind.

I am also informed that there have been agents here each $3.25 a day for railroad work. A gentleman from this town who made the trip from Chicago recently states that he saw numbers of camps of negro men along the railroad, and saw some of them at work cutting

PRESIDENT'S SISTER,

MARSHALL ACCEPTS
AND BEGINS CAMPAIGN
FOR DEMOCRACY AT ONCE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 15.—Vice President Thomas R. Marshall lost no time today in getting into the campaign warfare in Indiana. His notification ceremonies, completed, the vice president held numerous conferences with state leaders during the day, and tonight he will formally open his campaign with a speech at Terre Haute. Every section of the state will be visited before he leaves on an extended tour of the west.

Ex-Governor Martin H. Glenn of New York, who delivered the notification speech, and other democratic notables left the city today for other fields. Mr. Glenn went back to New York.

The democratic rally that attended the notification ceremonies last night was the largest ever held in the state. Thousands of Democrats heard Mr. Glenn's speech scoring Hughes for his attempts to discredit the administration and additional thousands clamored in vain for admission to Tomlinson hall.

Ten thousand democrats parade the city streets before the speeches. Mr. Marshall in his speech accepting the nomination ridiculed the fears of the republicans for the permanence of prosperity after the war and attempted to show that these were entirely inconsistent with a determination to sell more American goods abroad. He said, in part:

"What the republican southsayer to answer the entrails have disclosed that common prudence dictates raising tariff duties so as to prevent the dumping of pauper-made, cripple-made and orphan-made goods upon our market to the detriment of the American working man and that while doing this we should go out and pre-empt the markets of the world."

"How, if it be necessary to protect our working men, we can capture against these pauper-cripple-orphan-made goods the markets of the world where they may freely enter, eludes the understanding of every intellect save those who blindly worship the Baal of Protection."

"But the democratic party is a growing—a progressive party. It values its ancient views as to a tariff commission, now that the tariff has been lowered and wealth has been made to bear its fair proportion of the burdens of government, and it proposes to ascertain the real purchasing difference between the wage here and abroad, and to put that difference into the tariff schedule, if needed, which I doubt, and provided that the difference shall go into the pay envelope and not into dividends."

"But, those who criticize say the president is an infirm American. Now it so happens in this country not birth nor religion, but loyalty to America constitutes the American. Any blood and any faith and any party that assaults an American president because he chooses to ignore blood and church and party in the cause of peace and suffer less by committing har-karl."

"So that it may becloud the real issue the republican party has sought to copyright the phrase, 'Firm Americanism' without defining it. By this phrase they want the English-born to understand that if the president had been a firm American, Belgium would not have been invaded and the Lusitania would not have been sunk. This is what the late strategist at Armageddon is supposed to believe."

"On the other hand, to that small portion of the people who think more of Germany than America, that phrase is supposed to mean that had he been a firm American, the German emperor would never have been called upon to admit a breach of neutrality in sinking the Lusitania. In my opinion, the average American wants to know who is in the partnership with Candidate Hughes in this 'firm Americanism'?"

"Does the firm consist of Hughes and Roosevelt, of Hughes and Hohenzollern, or of Hughes, surviving partner of the firm of Hughes and Huerta, closing out a shabby stock of self-grown political patent medicines not guaranteed under the pure drug act?"

"Another phrase copyrighted without definition by the republicans is 'American Honor.' Now everybody knows there are as many kinds of honor as there are kinds of men. A gambler believes that honor consists in paying his gaming debts. A crook believes it consists in shielding his pals and a thief in fairly dividing the booty."

"Individual honor changes with the ages. Alexander Hamilton thought that honor demanded that he give Aaron Burr a chance to kill him but we now do not think so. The honor of America is simply the composite opinion of the American people as to when any why we should go to war."

"Let any organized government upon the face of the earth through its governmental authorities, deliberately offer an insult to the flag, or trample upon the rights of the American people and the Spirit of '76 will be found alive everywhere in our land."

"The one bright, peaceful spot under the sun this day is America and it is so because the president pleads guilty to the charge of using words rather than shot and shell and shrapnel."

"Politicians and partisans strut their brief hour and disappear. Socrates drank his cup of hemlock but philosophy lived on. The spirit of Savonarola went up in smoke from the market place in Florence but religion remained the supreme hope of the human heart. Mocked at, misunderstood, misjudged, Lincoln went to his martyr's crown but the republic was reunited and still lives."

"The judgment of the American people is not to make a martyr of the man who brooded over the Republic in storm-strengthened times and by mere words spoke peace to the troubled seas of international politics."

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Sept. 15.—The gaunt skeleton of the steamer Congress, protruding the sands off the entrance to Coos bay, was all that remained today to remind the 25 passengers and 170 crew that they had narrowly escaped a rather Volturno disaster. The passengers, landed here, were none the worse for wear today and many of them scattered for their destinations. They have the speed of the Congress to thank for their escape, according to the vessel's officers. With a dangerous race racing below decks, Captain Cousins turned the nose of the Congress toward shore, 50 miles away, and began a race with death.

Two miles from shore the fire broke so bad that he was forced to halt, and the passengers and crew were transferred to the bar dredge, Captain Whible, without accident. Other boats, speeding to his rescue in response to frantic wireless calls for help, aided in the work of rescue.

Highest praise was given the ship's officers and crew today by thankful passengers. Several times during the thrilling dash for life a panic was imminent, but the coolness and courage of the crew each time averted it.

The Congress and her cargo, owned by the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, are a complete loss. In the vain hope of salvaging some of the cargo Captain Cousins threw her throttle wide open as he left the steamer, hoping that she would run in the sands so they could flood her. The Congress was valued at $2,600,000.

Servians Drive Bulgars Back In Spectacular Drive at Point

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Once more the British have pierced the German front at one of the points boasted by the Teuton commanders to be strongest. Resuming their advance in the district south of Thiepval on the same front, the British swept back the German defenders by the fury of their assault.

The official statement issued by the war office today announces the capture of a thousand yards of trenches southeast of Thiepval, including the "Wunderwerk," a position which the Germans had fortified until they believed it impregnable. This position was desperately defended but the Germans were thrown back and it remained in British hands.

To the north of the road leading from Bapaume to Albert the British also smashed the Teuton line, advancing from 2,000 to 3,000 yards on a front of six miles. This drive was made between the Bouleaux wood and the Bapaume-Albert road.

The war office announcement states that the British are still progressing under favorable conditions.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—Allied French, Servian and British troops have won a sweeping victory over the Bulgarians on the Macedonian front, the war office announced today.

The Servians routed the Bulgars on a front of nine miles and are now in hot pursuit of the defeated enemy. In their advance the Servians have occupied several important positions.

The entire right wing of the Bulgarian army west of Lake Ostrovo appears to have been crumpled up by the smashing attack of the reorganized Servian army.

On the Vardar front the British found themselves opposed by combined Bulgarian and German forces, but these were unable to check the attacks of the Britons, who swept forward as the beaten enemy retired. The British captured Matichoukovo in their first assault.

While their Servian and English allies were driving forward successfully the French also took the offensive and launched an attack upon Bulgar trenches on a front of nearly a mile. They met with desperate resistance, but after a bitter battle succeeded in wresting the entire trench line, 1500 yards long, from the Bulgars.

The lunge of the Servian army against the front of Bulgarians, their traditional enemies, was the most spectacular phase of the general offensive. The order to advance was met with cheers and in their first rush the Serbs captured Gontchevo at the point of the bayonet.

They next assailed and took a position known as the Malkankidze crater, shortly afterward driving the Bulgars out of the village of Ekelesu, due west of the southern point of Lake Ostrovo.

GREEK CRISIS CONTINUES.
King Urged to Call Venizelos to Power Again.

ATHENS, Sept. 15.—M. Dimitrakopoulos informed King Constantine today that he had found it impossible to form a cabinet having a policy calling for anything other than immediate Greek participation in the war and therefore begged to be relieved of his task. It became known yesterday that Dimitrakopoulos had decided to reject the premiership, but further efforts were made last night to have him alter his determination. These failed and he informed the king of his decision early today.

Friends of the king have again advised him to turn once more to Eleutherios Venizelos in this crisis. Constantine replied that he desired to act for the best interest of Greece and that he would consider the suggestion carefully.

Official maritime reports state that all members of the crew were saved, but make no mention of the American passenger.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—Resuming their offensive while the Germans were still engaged in fruitless efforts to retake their lost positions, the French troops on the Somme front southeast of Comblès and north of Peronne by capturing systems of German trenches at Hancourt.

A French salient that was pushed forward by the capture of Bouchevignes has thus been spread out until the troops operating therein threaten to encircle Comblès from the south and east, at the same time holding a position favorable for an assault on Peronne from the north.

At Clerf, northwest of Peronne, the Germans launched another fierce counter attack, but the official communiqué states that this was also beaten back.

PROGRESS MADE IN MEXICAN PROGRAM BY COMMISSIONERS

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 15.—Final agreement on a border protection program was brought much closer today at the conference of the American and Mexican commissioners. When the Mexican representatives were persuaded to agree that the joint international police will have the power to exterminate criminals in a neutralized strip of northern Mexico, the last obstacle in this phase of the negotiations will have passed.

Commissioner Polk of the state department is expected to appear before the joint commission early next week. No session will be held tomorrow, the Mexican commissioners going to New York this afternoon for the week-end.

The commissioners have considered all of the plans put forward and the one now favored and which will be agreed upon in all probability for submission to the two governments for ratification will be one of a neutral strip, 40 or 50 miles wide in a portion of the Southern United States and Northern Mexico, the police force to be made up of equal numbers of American and Carranzista troops. The objection to this scheme encountered from the Mexican commissioners is that General Carranza would prefer to choose his own methods for the suppression of banditry in Chihuahua.

On this point the American commissioners are firm, however, and expect to have their way. They are not convinced that the Carranzista forces in northern Mexico are sufficiently strong to suppress the brigandage. The uppermost thought in their minds is that the withdrawal of General Pehring might result in an immediate increase of small bands of raiders who will turn their attention to American border towns.

The commissioners are still deadlocked in trying to fix responsibility for the Columbus raid as well as the Carrizal and Parral fights.

It is understood on high authority here that the situation on these questions has been put up to Mexico City by the Carranzista representatives with the hope that instructions will be given to yield the necessary points to insure an agreement.

HUNTERS LIKELY OUTNUMBER GAME

If the number of hunters' licenses issued in Allen county is a criterion by which to judge, the woods should be filled today with hunters, anxious to have a shot at Mr. Squirrel. During the afternoon hours yesterday it took the entire time of one person in the office of County Clerk of Courts D. A. Boushner to issue licenses.

Since July 1 the number of 412 licenses have been issued in Allen county. There was a few persons in the office today, still waiting licenses. The license issued now, lasts throughout the year.

ST. PAUL'S A. M. E. CHURCH IS CLOSING PROSPEROUS YEAR

Pastor Hagans Will Take an Excellent Report to Conference.

Less than 12 months ago the Rev. John E. Hagans was sent here from Urbana, Ohio, where he had served four years.

He came here highly recommended by the Urbana people simply to find great possibilities wrapped in harmless confusion. He took hold of the situation and soon had every member at work on a system that has brought success in every department of the church.

The membership has almost doubled, all debts are canceled, the church renovated and so improved, as to make prospective buyers anxious, a new church site secured and announced. The property was bought for $1,500 and sold for $2,000. The congregation has well laid plans to build a brick edifice on West Spring street.

He will leave for conference in the next few days. He will carry with him the very best of reports.

THREE $5 PRIZES ARE HANDED OUT

E. J. Brown, of East Kibby street, last night was arrested by Patrolmen Taylor and Conahan on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. When arraigned this morning he pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs.

Brown attempted to start a fight with a crowd of men and boys at the corner of Main and Kibby streets after he was ejected from the Majestic theatre, it is alleged.

WILL SOJOURN IN TOLEDO FOR AWHILE

Frank Sinks, 50, and Anna Rein were arrested last night by Patrolmen Roush, McCoy and Taylor, at O'Connor avenue, on a charge of being intoxicated and disorderly. They were taken to the Toledo work house this morning by Detective Reed. Complaint of the neighbors led to the arrest of the pair.

MRS. DONER'S FUNERAL

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Doner, 86 years old, resident of Allentown for many years, will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Allentown United Brethren church. The Rev. O. E. Smith of Elida will officiate. Interment will be made in Greenlawn cemetery near Elida. Mrs. Doner died early yesterday morning at the city hospital from general debility.

SERIOUSLY INJURED AT THE GARFORD

F. Johnson, 1170 Greenlawn avenue, was seriously injured this afternoon at the Garford plant when a scaffold on which he was standing gave way. It is thought that the man is out of a broken leg in the fall. Johnson met with the accident while putting some stock away. The Williams and Davis ambulance was called and removed the man to his home.

PAROLLED BOY CONVICT JOINS BRITISH ARMY

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 14.—Chifford Gray, a youth of 19 and a son of Mrs. T. W. Gray, of Macon, Ga., is fighting with the British army "somewhere in France." The youth was convicted of stealing an automobile in Georgia, but was paroled after serving a year in prison. He then came to Birmingham. Finding life slow here he went to Canada where he enlisted in the forces of the Dominion. When his contingent was ready to sail he sent a postcard picture of himself to the prison, over his disfigurement of Georgia and underneath his likeness was scrawled: "I am with a sick parolman and sent a soldier in the king." He will not be sent back to prison for violating his parole.

words on the right of way. This to my mind shows that the Republicans are endeavoring to colonize them in close states and vote them for Hughes.

I have been democratic county chairman of this county for 14 years and naturally keep my eye skinned for such developments. As to my reliability, etc., I refer you to the governor of Kentucky, or any city or county official or banker of this city.

"This," says Finley, "is the plan that was worked by Mark Hanna in 1896. . . . Evidently the enactment of the eight-hour law by congress at President Wilson's behest has started the railroads again and it is up to democratic organization officials in registration cities to watch the registration and challenge every new comer."

Chairman J. Miller Laudick of the county executive committee avers that there isn't going to be any floating vote in Allen county. Plans were laid last evening for a complete check of every precinct, and watch will be kept on anything which appears suspicious in the least.

Working on the polling of the county starts Monday. Under the direction of the executive committee, poll-takers are to cover every precinct in the county, gathering the names of all the voters, their residence addresses, occupations, length of them in state, county and precinct, age, color, and if possible partisan affiliation.

Getting a man's party is not always possible, for some are either indifferent or non-partisan, voting only on special occasions. They are as a rule the business men who play close to the board and avoid taking any part in politics, for trade and financial reasons. Sometimes the enumerators can guess accurately by chance remarks, and the neighbors generally know, but the committee wants the most exact poll ever made this year. Duplicates will be sent to Columbus to file in the mailing lists of the state executive committee.

Central committeemen are to recommend men for the various precincts. And they had better hurry up about it, too, otherwise some lad other than the one a committeeman wants will be selected.

There is cash in the job, and any democrat who has a few days to spare might call up his precinct committeeman and apply. Information can be had at the party headquarters, Morris Arcade.

Three new committeemen were added to the county central committee last night by filling vacancies in precinct G, Second ward, W. A. Thramann is the committeeman. David Metzger was chosen for Third, A and John Sherfy for Third C.

All central committeemen are urged to hand in at once—the names of men to serve as registrars on the four registration days in October, as well as judges and clerks on election day, November 4. The names should be left at headquarters for transmission to the board of elections.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN AGAIN!!

At Royal tomorrow in "Shanghai."

BINKLEY CASE IS UNDER ADVISEMENT

Judge William Klinger took the case of Mrs. Susan Binkley against her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Anna Binkley, under advisement, after testimony had been offered in the case yesterday and the points submitted by attorneys.

A large farm in Auglaize township is at stake. When her son, W. E. Binkley, died, in a will he provided his mother should remain upon the farm with his wife. Difference arose and the aged woman left. She went into court, anxious to secure the opinion of the judge in the matter.

It is said she will be taken back into the home and the daughter-in-law will try to bear with her ways and keep her while she lives, because that was the wish of her dead husband. Mrs. Binkley is nearly 80 years of age.

GEORGE SAXBY OUT OF JAIL ON BOND

George Saxby, who has been in the county jail since the partial report of the grand jury, which indicted him, charged with attacking an officer in the purpose of lynching, was released from jail today. He filed in and in the sum of $1,500 for his appearance at court. George Fetter, Bath township farmer, and H. R. Whitney provided bond.

MISSING PASTOR RETURNS.

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 14.—Rev. W. Blazewski, pastor of the Polish National Catholic church whose disappearance Tuesday night aroused both police and friends, returned today, much surprised at the worry over his disappearance. He said he remained with a sick parishioner and sent a note back saying he would not return home for a day. The note was not received.

LIFE IN KITE BALLOON AT FRONT FULL OF THRILLS

PARIS, Sept. 15.—Not the least exciting and dangerous post on the British front is in one of the big balloons, or "sausages" from which artillery fire is observed and directed.

There's always a chance of breaking loose or being shot down by a hostile aeroplane. If the balloon breaks her moorings in a storm, the wind may carry the observer over the enemy's lines, making a parachute drop the only way to avoid capture or death.

A correspondent describing an experience in one of these balloons says the young flight commander in charge told him just before they ascended:

"When you get up don't try to look straight down, that'll make you giddy; look out horizontally until you get used to the sensation of height. Men sometimes go half mad when they first look straight down. I've known them to try to climb out of the basket."

"What do you do with them?" queried the correspondent.

"Oh, club them with the rifle butt if they won't listen to reason. You see, we always have a rifle with us in case of Fokkers."

They ascend and the correspondent continues:

Your first view of the trench-line from a balloon is apt to be somewhat staggering. You seem to be almost over them; there is a ragged line, and another ragged line running parallel to it; and it stretches north and south as far as your eyes can see. Behind it is a wilderness of ruined houses and shattered churches, of farms still standing. The whole thing is like a vast map, but it is real—you are actually gazing down into the enemy's defenses.

"See that flash? There's another, and another." You catch a glimpse of a lashing wisp of flame, and it is very far away.

"We heard there was a big gun position there. Let's see—yes." He consults the map with muttering lips.

"Must be on the railway there. That's it," another flash shows and he makes certain, yes, even of its exact position.

He is busy with the telephone again now, speaking eagerly. "Tell the heavy battery there's an enemy battery active in P N 3 Z 4 by 5. I can give them the exact line and if they like to engage I'll control their fire."

"There you are—see that flash? Well, I'll bet it's an S 4 on a railway mounting. Now watch, they're ready to fire." He speaks into the telephone, and says: "All ready here." Deep down on mother earth you hear a thundering bellow; the heavies have fired. And, watching the target, you observe a sudden spiteful flash break out some 15 to 20 seconds later.

"Ten minutes right and short," goes the message to the battery. Remember, please, that this balloon up in mid-air is connected with the entire telephone system of the corps to which it is attached, yes, from that tiny basket, which contains two men with difficulty, send a message by your own voice into the nearest and dearest in her own drawing-room, if the war office will but give permission.

"Fired," comes again, and once more a spiteful flash shoots out in the remote distance.

"Twenty minutes left and over." He turns to you. "Not a bad basket, it should be the target next time. Hello, they're warming up!" A flash has broken out from an entirely different point, the enemy are retreating. Your balloonists jot down a note, then turn his attention to the original target. Another deep bellow from below, and then—"Good shot Target." A considerable cloud of something leaps upward beyond. Another shot is fired. It also is a bull, another follows, and succeeding its burst, a vast pillar of smoke, shot with fire, springs high and very high into the air.

"Looks as if we'd got his ammunition. He'll be feeling pretty sick now. We'll carry on a bit, though, just to make sure." And he does carry on, until some 20 rounds of 12-inch stuff have been plastered in, and around that enemy gun-position, from which come no more gun flashes. As the last shot is fired by the heavies, your pilot grins a bit.

"They're getting it in the neck, too. I'll turn them on to that other battery." This time you can almost see the German guns as you steady the powerful telescope that the stillness of the day permits you to use. There is a hedge, and there are gaps in the hedge, and behind the gaps are certain hillocks, which are very certainly the roofs of gun-pits. Occasional lurid flashes appear, and it is possible to hear the harsh scream of 5.9's.

The heavies, indignant enough now, waste no time in laying their guns, and a shell lands quite close to one of those hillocks. Another follows it, arriving with a rush and half the hedge disappears, a few trees leap up like squirrels, there is a general suggestion of disaster.

Shell after shell lands fairly in among the hillocks, until there is nothing left of the hedge, and mighty little left of the battery. Through the glasses you observe movements of the corner of a small plantation near by the enemy target.

"They're pulling out. Now we'll see." There is a cold-blooded determination in this young lad's manner. He is going to destroy human life in his two hands, rears the face of no one knows how many Huns. He controls the heavy battery, directs it to lay on a fresh target and another shell . . .

it lands right in the middle of the mass of movement by the wood.

"They won't trouble us for a bit, anyhow." Then, down the telephone:

"I think that farm at So-and-So—he gives the exact position—is their headquarters. Might as well finish the job."

Three minutes later you see a considerable farm collapse as to its roof and one wall, three more minutes and the whole place is furiously ablaze. And you realize at last as you have never realized before, what a colossal and destructive affair modern war is. The face of the landscape has been altered for a couple of miles in half an hour or less, thousands of pounds' worth of property has been destroyed, innumerable men have been killed, and all through the agency of this quaint "sausage."

PEACHES AND CREAM ARE NOW IN ORDER

PORT CLINTON, O., Sept. 15.—The big peach movement is now on in Ottawa county, and there will be on an average of 150 to 180 cars of Elbertas shipped daily through the Ottawa County Fruit Exchange. There will be about 40 cars daily from Danbury and Lakeside, 20 from the Gypsum shippers, 35 from the Island and Gypsum Fruit Company, 25 from the Port Clinton Fruit Company, 25 from the Oak Harbor Fruit Company and 15 from La Carne. At Catawba Island there will be about eight cars daily to be shipped by boat to Detroit. The Elberta crop this year is of solid condition and much better than last year, although smaller than expected on account of the dry weather.

400 DEPOSITORS CLAMOR; PRIVATE BANK IS CLOSED

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Extra police were stationed in South Union street today to prevent rioting among several hundred foreigners who clamored about the private bank of Michael Mickniuk, which has failed and swept away their life savings.

The failure of the Mickniuk bank, following closely on the collapse of several other institutions in the past few months has created a panic in foreign quarters. It makes the 43rd private bank to fail in Chicago in the last five years.

The Mickniuk bank had deposits of between $45,000 and $50,000, practically none of which, it is believed, will be salvaged. There were about 400 depositors.

Michael Mickniuk, the owner, and his eldest son, Stephen, are missing, but will surrender to the authorities today, according to members of the family.

WILLIS' BOARD GETS INTO WRANGLE ON OHIO PEN PROBE

Walter Jackson, Prosecuting Charges, Intimates a 'Whitewash' is Desired.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 15.—A suggestion by James E. Dwyer, of Youngstown, that the board of administration hear no further testimony of convicts in the probe of Warden Thomas' regime, precipitated a wrangle among the four board members today.

"I think Convict Morgan is crazy," said Member Dwyer. "Good God, are we going to listen to any more testimony like this? I don't think there is a prison anywhere better conducted than the Ohio penitentiary."

"You can drag in the whitewash bucket and wield the brush now," snarled Attorney W. B. Jackson of Lima.

"I object to Dwyer's ranting his board of administration today subpoenaed Superintendent C. H. Hurley and four physicians at the Lima criminal hospital to testify in the penitentiary probe to refute an affidavit of Otto Hurley, who had obtained a parole if he would testify against Warden Thomas.

Hurley's affidavit was not offered in evidence by Warden Thomas, but Philbrick insisted that it be made a part of the record following oral testimony of Hurley that no members had been made by Philbrick in a conversation with Hurley of the penitentiary probe.

The challenge was made before Notary J. M. Stout, a prison employee, and in the presence of Warden Thomas and his secretary, Frank B. Thompson. In it Hurley said that he, Hurley and Philbrick had asked him, while an inmate at Lima, to make statements against the warden when the probe began.

"Mr. Clark said Thomas had handed him a lemon in transferring certain prisoners to Lima, and that he was going to make the warden drink the juice," said Hurley. "Phil-brick made me all kinds of promises in order to make me promise to make statements against Warden Thomas. He rode with me in the same seat on the return trip from Lima and promised me a parole if he could get it for me."

Hurley said two men were killed at Lima when attendants gave them too many doses of salts while they were weakened physically because of lack of food. He said there was a brutality employed toward inmates at Lima than in the penitentiary and then, on cross-examination, couldn't reconcile this statement with testimony that he had begged to remain at Lima.

Supporting the charge that convicts Warden Thomas didn't like were "railroaded to Lima" and others who ought to be there were kept behind, Attorney W. B. Jackson developed through testimony of penitentiary physician O. M. Kramer that the papers required by law for the transfer of 44 convicts to Lima were not on file.

The law provides that Kramer must make the initial move by certifying to the warden in writing that he believes the men are insane; no such certification could be found in the prison records. Kramer said he recalled having a convict make out the papers on a typewriter.

Kramer, on cross-examination, admitted that he was not qualified as an alienist; that he recommended some prisoners be transferred to Lima because Deputy Warden Woodward said they ought to be there.

It developed through testimony of members of the "red shirt gang" that they dreaded going to Lima because there was "no way out," while at the penitentiary there was always hope of a pardon.

BARTLETT STARTS TO DRIFT THROUGH WASTES OF ARCTIC

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Captain Robert A. Bartlett, companion of Peary on the trip when the latter, with a negro, reached the North Pole, announced today he has pledged of $55,000 for a new project in the Arctic regions.

He proposes to let a ship be frozen up in the Arctic region and then drift toward the Pole across a part of the earth never before explored. For this he needs about an equal amount beside that already promised.

"I desire to superintend the construction of a wooden vessel of about 350 tons, especially for Arctic work," he said today. "We would start in May, 1918, northward through Behring strait; go eastward off the northern coast of Alaska to about 130° west longitude, and latitude 74 or 75° over even farther north; let the vessel freeze up and go with the ice drift through the great unexplored Arctic regions. There are more than a million square miles of unexplored territory in the Arctic ocean.

"I would take only eighteen men with me on the trip, preferably young college men. While we drifted we would take soundings and use a deep sea dredge to gather the flora and fauna from the floor of the ocean.

"Instead of regular steam engines and boilers, requiring the consumption of coal, I will install a Bollinger crude oil engine, thus doing away with the necessity of engineers and firemen.

"From my knowledge of the Arctic regions and the currents of general drift of the ice I should say that we would drift for about five years before reaching civilization again, but we might do it in three years. I would provision the ship for five or six years, and that would be easy with only nine to provide for. The general drift would be to the west, and I should say that we would eventually come out either between Greenland and Spitzbergen, or between Spitzbergen and Franz Josef Land.

"It is possible that we would discover new land during our travels. We would take about a hundred dogs and what sledges we required for exploration. The dogs would be fed on bear meat and fish, of both of which we would have no difficulty in getting all we required. Our own principal meat diet would be bear and seal. Of course, we would have canned meats with our provisions, but I have never cared much for them in Arctic work. Seal meat is delicious, and the polar bear meat is good, too—very like pork."

LIMA BOY LANDS IN GOOD POSTION

Raymond P. Day, 656 Prospect avenue, formerly assistant secretary for a local law firm, took the examination here last month for the government service and has already received an appointment with the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics at Washington.

Mr. Day is a hustler and as they are only required to work seven hours per day in the department at Washington he expects to take a special college course in one of the large universities located there. A host of friends join in wishing Mr. Day success in his new field of endeavor.

There is a shortage of stenographers in the government service, there being about 200 vacancies in the various departments at the present time and examinations are being held every month in 400 of the principal cities of the United States until sufficient eligibles are secured to fill these places.

MRS. BABER RECOVERING.

Information from the home of Mrs. John Poorman on the Lima-Spencerville pike, six miles east of Spencerville, where Mrs. Vivian Baber has been, since removed from the City hospital, is that her complete recovery is assured. She is the wife of the Shawnee township farmer attacked by Charles Daniels, the negro, the latter part of August, in her farm home.

It is estimated six or seven weeks will be required for complete recovery. Cerebral trouble is still feared by the physicians in charge, caused by concussion from a hard blow on the left side of the face.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 14.—Announcement was made today at republican state headquarters that Senator W. E. Borah of Idaho, has been compelled to cancel all of his speaking engagements in Ohio because of an operation for throat trouble. It is expected that Borah will visit Ohio later in the campaign.

STATE GOES AFTER BOGUS AUTOMOBILE COMPANIES IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 15.—Steps designed to put "bogus" automobile insurance companies out of business are contemplated by State Insurance Commissioner Taggart and F. H. Lee, president of the Ohio State Automobile association. These officials have received numerous complaints from all parts of the state.

"These parties posing as insurance companies and calling themselves automobile owners' protective associations, are not incorporated and are not licensed under the Ohio laws," said Taggart. "The certificates they issue are worth no more than the paper they are written on."

Lee said: "Agents seem to size up the man before selling a 'policy' and then a certificate on colored paper is issued. The color of the paper determines the value of the policy, although the wording is the same on all."

Although agents claim to sell insurance, it is charged that the certificates merely "offer the services of lawyer, detective and the company itself, and also agree to settle disputes between members of the association."

"The matter will be taken up with the attorney general at once, and, if no law of Ohio can be found to put them out of business, a bill will be drawn up to be introduced in the next legislature; but we mean to drive them out," said Lee.

KILLED BY AUTO.

BUYRUS, O., Sept. 14.—Charles Homan, 59, unmarried farm laborer, was found dead in a roadway eight miles south of here at 4 o'clock this morning, apparently having been struck by an automobile. Indications are that Homan survived some time after being hit but that the automobile occupants failed to stop long enough to investigate.

WEATHER — Fair tonight and Saturday; cooler tonight, probably frost in exposed places in west and central portions.

THE IMPOSSIBLE

THESE are many things impossible, but seemingly the most impossible of the impossible is the woman who can hold her peace and talk only when occasion demands it. That has been a joke—always on the woman, of course—for many years, and there are many of us no doubt who chafe undeservedly under the jest, but the majority of us deserve the ridicule. All of which leads me to tell you of a little incident which occurred in the office yesterday which was rich in illustration of the impossibility of the feminine tongue.

It happened about 2 o'clock, when a man and woman entered the editorial room and asked for a reporter. The man nodded to the woman indicating that she would do the talking, but the woman said, "Oh, no, John, you can tell it so much better than I; I wouldn't think of doing it. I simply couldn't." Which, of course, was alright and as it should be—so far as it went.

Therefore, John bravely started out, but he had scarcely begun before Mary broke in with a correction of three minutes in the time. John, naturally admitted his error, and again started. But he didn't get far before Mary corrected him again. He took the correction gracefully, and went on undaunted. Alas, for his noble purpose, Mary seemingly worried by his neglect of detail broke in again. Grace deserted the brow of kind-hearted John, and Much Annoyance appeared in her place. Then after several more thrusts from Mary, exasperated, but polite, John said as gently as his self control would allow, "Mary, dear, I think you had better tell it after all." And Mary did, without the least evidence of hesitation or backwardness.

"Aha," I said to myself, "I see how we women deserve the ridicule concerning our tongue. Never idle a minute, not even when we give it a chance to rest. Truly the solution of the perpetual motion problem."

You all have heard the value of a good listener, but how many of you have seen the theory put into practice by our own sex? The good listener among women is either an extinct species, a rare specimen, or a myth. But it could be accomplished, this seemingly impossible impossibility. I think I shall try it, for Mary was but a mirror for me, for I am also a woman, thank goodness.

GAS IMPROVEMENTS.

Great improvement has been made in the past 29 years in the methods of transportation, distribution, and consumption of natural gas. Within this period, cast-iron pipe with lead joints has given place to steel pipe with rubber-packed joints or oxy-acetylene welded joints; hand regulation to automatic; a perforated pipe burner in a coal stove or furnace to modern appliances, and the most modern steam plants are being supplanted by natural gas engines.

It is now possible to economically convey natural gas long distances to good markets. Lines two hundred and fifty miles long are now in successful operation, and it is possible to convey gas five hundred miles by using not over ten per cent of the gas taken in at the initial end of the line as power for its transmission. "Some facts about Natural Gas," J. C. McDowell, in National Magazine for September.

Doily Fashion Hint

Something new is a feather hat, this, decidedly. Continental—those jaunty three-cornered shapes that become all faces —are the rage for fall. Here's one made entirely of plumage—gray breast of Ghebe and peacock feathers intermingled, with a smart wing in green-blue.

Favors of Fashion

BY CLARICE

Many charming new ideas in modes for the coming season were shown at Mrs. Belle Armstrong Whitney's fashion show, held recently in the ball room of the Holland House, New York. Last year Mrs. Whitney gave her show as a theatrical entertainment in one of the large theatres, but this year it was held as an invitation affair.

Not only is Mrs. Whitney's show of interest to those who must know new styles, but, as it is based on her wide knowledge of textiles, it is an infallible guide to the vogue in materials for the approaching fall and winter.

"The lines of the new fashions," said Mrs. Whitney, "give beauty of fabric a very remarkable showing. Even the staple materials of the simplest weaves must be employed this season in good goods, or the result will be commonplace."

Practically all the large model houses of Paris are included in the showing, runs an account in the C. S. M., also the great French creators of fabrics. Among the Bianchini fabrics are victrola satin, satin oter Pompadour broche, fulgurante, faille, quadrille and faille, in a number of patterns and varieties; Pekin matel brilliant, triboulet, marquisette lame argent, and lame effects in many designs; moire liden, moire spirale, silk cotele, petit de sole, tulle fantasie and many others.

The fashion for failles is also upheld by Bradford & Jerrier, who are showing some in beautiful new colorings. In fact, they have put forth an exceptionally fine line of new ideas this season and are consequently attracting the flocks of buyers. They are represented also in volie lame argent, lame d'or, and Pompadour broche. Couturier is also represented by new "faille a grosses pastille satin," "gros de Londres," and by his velvets and mouselines de sole.

Muff sets this season are matched and include not only the collar, or pelerine, and muff, but the hat. Many are designed to be worn with tailored frocks and combine some material or feature of the gown in their construction or garniture.

Mrs. A. Winemiller was the guest Thursday of her sister, Mrs. Ada Wimer, of Wapakoneta.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wright have as their guests Mrs. C. W. Lytle and son Norman of Bucyrus, Miss Bertha Cook of Greenville, Pa., and Mr. John Lee of Sharon, Pa. Mrs. Frank Wright entertained with a luncheon at her home this noon in honor of the guests, Mrs. Harry Wright, Mrs. Wallace King and the Misses Frances and Hazel Wright were guests other than the above.

HELP FOR WORKING WOMEN

Some Have to Keep on Until They Almost Drop. How Mrs. Conley Got Help.

Here is a letter from a woman who had to work, but was too weak and suffered too much to continue. How she regained health:—

Frankfort, Ky.—"I suffered so much with female weakness that I could not do my own work, had to hire it done. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I tried it. I took three bottles and I found it to be all you claim. Now I feel as well as ever I did and am able to do all my own work again. I recommend it to any woman suffering from female weakness. You may publish my letter if you wish."—Mrs. JAMES CONLEY, 516 St. Clair St., Frankfort, Ky.

No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

All women are invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special advice,—it will be confidential.

THE ZADRUGA OF SERBIA.

Those who know Serbia well declare that the economic system known as the zadruga has saved the Serbs from the life of poverty and all that flows from it. It is a glorified family. From one house others grow, as the family grows by marriage, until a little community is established on something like socialist principles. The stare-shinma (headman) and his wife live in the biggest house and direct the industries of the satellite houses. Anxiety as to bread and butter being eliminated, the Serbian has become one of the gayest of the races of mankind.—London Graphic.

RAILROAD SERVICE.

The first obligation of public utilities engaged in transportation is service to the public.

The first essential of service is safety.

Quality of service must primarily depend upon the money received in fares. For this reason it is necessary that the rate of fare should be sufficient to permit the companies to meet the reasonable demands of patrons and to yield a fair return on a fair capitalization.

Regulated private ownership and operation of electric railways is more conducive to good service and the public welfare than government ownership and operation, because the latter are incompatible with administrative initiative, economy and efficiency, and with the proper development of cities through the extension of transportation lines. The interests of the public are fully protected by the authority given the regulatory bodies—"Electric Railways and the People," Harlow C. Clark, in National Magazine for September.

next week on charge of poisoning the aged inmate of her home. Prosecutor Hugh W. Alcon is prepared to proceed with the case.
One of the most important witnesses for the defense will be Mrs. Gilligan's 18-year-old daughter, Mary E. Archer, a child by her first husband, after whom she named the Archer home. The young daughter, for whose sake the elderly woman says she "slaved and scraped like a dog," is her mother's staunchest supporter. She vehemently charges that the charges against her mother were trumped up by viciously jealous neighbors, and declares she is sure that her mother will prove her innocence to the world.

FRENCH YOUTH, WHO WAS SNUBBED, NOW REVERED IN U. S.

Lafayette, Aide and Friend of Washington, Hero of History.

Served America in Days of Earliest and Direst Need.

By Frederic J. Haskins.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—In the early part of July a hundred and forty years ago, a red-headed youth of gallant bearing and unmistakable French accent presented himself at the headquarters of the congress of the Revolution in Philadelphia and requested a commission as major-general in the colonial army. Congress was exasperated. It was occupied with the matter of a few British victories that had recently taken place and in a distinctly bad humor over the results of other such appointments of foreigners in the army. It refused even so much as to look at the young man's credentials.

In those days, however, as at the present time, it was hard to snub a red-headed person. The young man merely sat down and wrote them a note, stating: "After the sacrifices I have made, I have the right to exact two favors: one is to serve at my own expense; the other is, to serve at first as volunteer. (Signed) Marie Jean Paul Roch Yves Gilbert Motier, Marquis de Lafayette."

Last week, the whole American nation celebrated the one-hundred and fifty-ninth anniversary of the birth of this same young man, who though a Frenchman, is also an American hero. The boundaries of the thirteen colonies which he helped to free from the despotic rule of Great Britain have changed and there now a few new additions such as the Middle West, the Pacific Coast and the Louisiana Purchase; but the name of Lafayette is revered by all of these.

The Marquis de Lafayette was born on September 6, 1757, in Auvergne, France. His father died when he was still a mere infant and his education was supervised by his mother, who worried over her son's frail health. At the age of thirteen, his mother died, leaving him alone with the responsibility of a princely fortune. Even in those days of extreme youth the instincts of the humanitarian were evident—the desire to avenge wrongs which was a heritage from some ancient Lafayette who was a knight errant. In after years he said to a friend: "You ask me at what period I first experienced my ardent love for liberty and glory. I recollect no time of life anterior to my enthusiasm for anecdotes of glorious deeds, and to my projects for traveling over the world to acquire fame. At eight years of age my heart beat when I heard of a wolf that had done some injury and caused still more alarm in our neighborhood and the hope of meeting it was the object of all my walks."

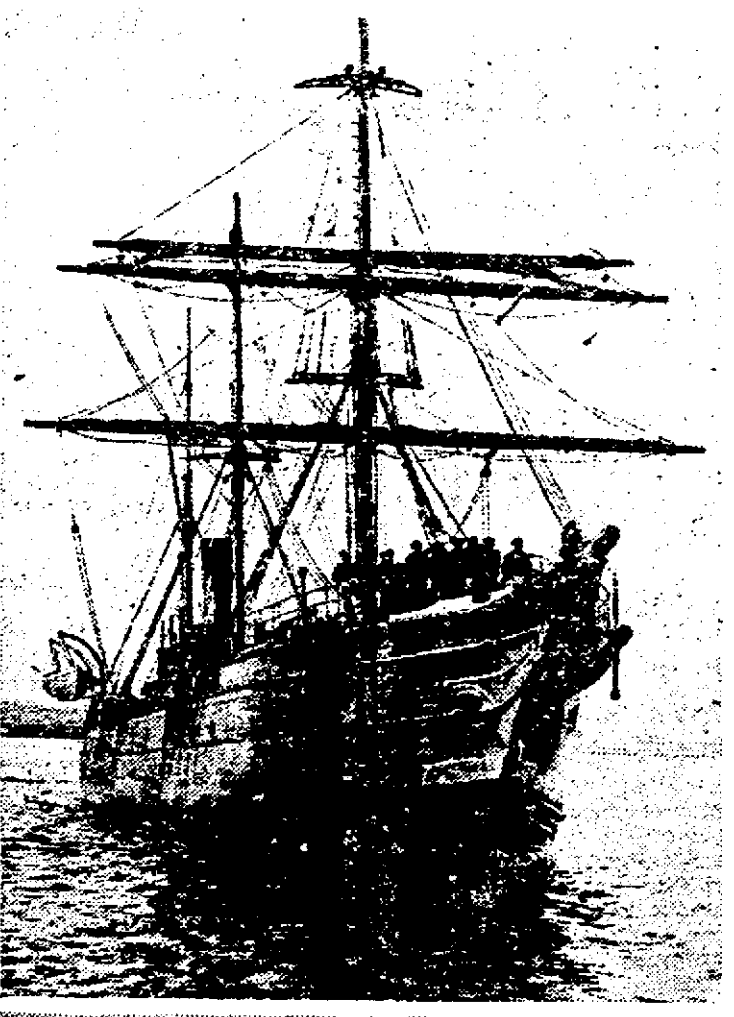

Thus, at the age of sixteen, when his people would have had him go to court and learn the intricate business of becoming a courtier, the young Frenchman defied them all and went into the army. In this year, also, he was married to a young Frenchwoman fifteen years old, daughter of the Duke d'Ayen and wealthy in her own right. This alliance was arranged by the two families without consulting the opinions of the young people, but contrary to the usual story, they fell madly in love with each other and for three years Lafayette forgot about the world wolves there were to conquer in the happiness of his domestic life. Then one night he was given a sharp reminder.

As captain of the dragoons, Lafayette was stationed at Metz. At this time, the Duke of Gloucester, brother of the king of England, came to Metz and a banquet was given for him by the commandant which was attended by many officers, Lafayette included. Dispatches had just been received by the duke as to the acute situation in the American colonies together with a copy of the Declaration of Independence, which the gentleman read to the assembly. The resistance of the colonies was discussed and the probable measures which would be taken to crush the uprising. During all the discussion the young Lafayette sat with a rap look on his face, occasionally interrupting the duke to ask an excited question. Here at last was his chance—the opportunity to fulfill the dream of his boyhood. He thereupon firmly resolved that he would go to America and fight for the cause of liberty.

But to decide was one thing and to go was another. All the arrangements had to be made in secret against the bitter opposition of his family and even his king. However, he finally managed to meet the American agent in Paris—a man by the name of Deane—and secured from him a commission as major-general in the colonial army. Deane at that time handing out commissions with more enthusiasm than authority. Then came the news of five or six overwhelming British victories and the evacuation of New York, whereupon Deane felt it his duty to dissuade the young marquis.

Lafayette was more enthusiastic than ever. The greater the defeat, the greater victory, and he had many visions of himself on a white charger, accepting the surrendered sword of a British general and incidentally delivering a few pertinent remarks as to the inevitable triumph of liberty. Since he could not secure passage on a regular sailing vessel to America, he bought a ship himself, selected a few picked men and made preparations to sail from Bordeaux. On the appointed day, however, the ship was seized by the British ambassador in Paris and Lafayette was arrested and taken to the guard house. Here he escaped in disguise and made his way to a Spanish port, where in due course his ship picked him up and he was on his way to America.

Landing in South Carolina two months later, he rode on horseback to Philadelphia, where he made his representations to the American congress. Although congress gave him the desired commission when they discovered who he was, Lafayette soon found that the appointment was only honorary and that the matter had been left to the discretion of General Washington. He made the acquaintance of the general at a dinner the same night, where by his modesty and tact he made a favorable impression on the patriots and especially upon Washington. This was the beginning of a friendship between the two men that was never marred by misunderstanding or dissection and that terminated only in death.

Followed close upon his enlistment the fall of Philadelphia and the Battle of the Brandywine, where the young marquis received a musket wound in the leg. It was with the greatest impatience that he suffered doctoring and slow convalescence in Philadelphia, where he had been carried for medical attention, and as soon as he was able, he was back in the field again in charge of a division of men under Washington.

Unfortunately for his ambition, however, Lafayette's military career was never conspicuously brilliant. He fought admirably and bravely; he went through the winter at Valley Forge under the same hardships as did the colonist soldiers; he attained distinction at the Battle of Monmouth and executed a masterly retreat at Barren Hill where his troops were almost completely surrounded by British forces. But he did not possess the military powers of other generals in the war, and finally he decided to return to France to help the American cause in his own country.

After six months he again came to America with promises of assistance from his king, and Washington put him in command of the forces in Virginia. His first act was to borrow money from his bankers in New York and clothe and equip his soldiers. Then came the battle on Yorktown, with the spectacular surrender of Cornwallis.

Again Lafayette bade goodbye to Washington and America to return to France, and there American history loses him and French history claims him for its own. The French revolution was just on the verge of breaking out in Paris, and the king had called the assembly of notables. In this assembly Lafayette was a conspicuous figure, arguing the cause of the people and the necessity of giving them greater liberty. From then on his history was largely the history of France. While his heart was with the cause of the people, he was continually disgusted by their fardish desire for bloodshed and on numerous occasions risked his life to save his friends. He was the one who stood between the nobility and the people, fighting the cause of the people with the nobility and the cause of the nobility with the infuriated mob. As commander of the national guard in Paris he was idolized by the French, but he lacked the strong military hand and the ability for intrigue which might have enabled him to end the revolution. He once saved the life of the king and queen at the risk of his own, but he could not prevent them later going to the guillotine.

Discouraged and sickened by the barbarism of the revolutionists, he retired to his private estates where he lived peacefully until France called him to take command of a regiment against the invasion of Austria. He was captured by the Austrians and imprisoned in first Prussian and then Austrian prisons for five years until both America and Napoleon Bonaparte interceded for him. In 1824, he again visited America, which welcomed him with open arms and voted him $200,000 and a township of land. France again recalled him in 1830 to resume command of the national guard in the revolution of that year. He died in Paris on the twentieth of May, 1834.

"WHERE ARE MY CHILDREN?"

A smashing, daring subject done in a smashing, daring way best describes "Where Are My Children?" a new film play that comes to the Orpheum theatre for three days, starting Monday, September 18. Three performances are to be given daily. All children under 16 years are to be excluded. Tyrone Power, the foremost character actor will be seen in the leading role, supported by an unusual strong company of artists.

This newest of screen plays, which will be seen for the first time in this city, preaches against race suicide, and—instead of it being a mediocre affair, it reveals a wonderful dramatic story and surroundings of luxury and wealth.

The well known actor John Brian Walker, in commenting on the production, said:

"Here is a motion picture which should be carried to every city and town of the world and thrown on the screen over and over again, until every daughter and every son has had its full significance impressed upon them."

CONFESSED SLAYER SHOT AS HE LEAPS FROM R. R. TRAIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Arthur Woltolen, confessed murderer of Mrs. Elizabeth Nicholas, a wealthy widow here a year ago, attempted to escape from detectives who were bringing him back to New York from Ironwood, Mich., when the New York Central train stopped at Montrose, N. Y., early today.

When the train slowed down at Montrose, Woltolen, who was accompanied by Detectives Enright and Foley, leaped to his feet and rushed to the station platform. Both detectives went after him and when the fleeing man failed to heed their orders to halt, the officers opened fire with their revolvers. Woltolen was hit and dropped. He was picked up and carried back on the train.

Word of the attempted escape was sent to New York and when the train reached the 125th street station an ambulance was there and took Woltolen to the Harlem hospital.

It is believed today that the confession made by Woltolen and John Mulholland may free Onnie Talas, now serving a life sentence for the murder of Mrs. Nicholas. His friends are preparing an appeal for clemency to Governor Whitman.

FIND MANY FOREIGNERS IN RUSSIAN ARMIES

VIENNA, Sept. 15.—A correspondent of the "Neue Freie Presse" writes from the front in the Bukovina:

"Among 700 prisoners recently taken by our troops near the Kiri-baba Pass were 11 Frenchmen, 18 Japanese and 20 Serbians. One of the captured French officers told me that he was sent to Russia with about 1,000 other officers, non-commissioned officers and privates to train artillerymen. This was no easy job and it took considerable time before the Russian recruits learned how to handle the big guns furnished by England, France, Japan and the American manufacturers. As soon as the new artillerymen became efficient they were sent to the front with their French instructors."

"A Japanese officer told me that about 20,000 of his countrymen are fighting in the Russian ranks. This force was picked from different Japanese regiments and sent to the front in Europe early last Spring."

"The Serbians with the Russian army number about 6,000. They are soldiers who fled into Roumania at the time of Field Marshal von Mackensen's drive through Serbia. They were interned when they crossed the Danube, but the Roumanian government later secretly liberated them and sent them to Russia, where they were re-armed and attached to the army of the czar."

LOAFERS ROUNDED UP.

Erle detectives arrested four loafers who were very disorderly, and who had been ordered off the streets but refused. They were intoxicated. When arraigned in criminal court this morning they pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkenness, but could not relate what had taken place the "night before." Police officials will hold them over for a war on suspicion.

HUGHES SAYS: WORDS VS DEEDS WILSON DOES: A Chronological Contrast Compiled From Newspaper Reports

CHICAGO: "If anything in this campaign is real it is the question whether we want words or action." As I was 100 per cent candidate I became 100 per cent candidate.

St. Paul: "Reasonable, adequate preparedness is a primary national duty, and if I am elected I propose to see that that duty is discharged to the credit of the American people."

Fargo, N. D.: "If elected I should devote my ability to serving the United States."

Bismark, N. D.: "I am keenly aware of the importance of our agricultural prosperity, and I desire to do all that can be done to promote that prosperity."

Helena, Mont.: "The present administration is to a very great extent a sectional administration."

Spokane: Mr. Hughes rests from his arduous work of criticizing the deeds of President Wilson's administration.

SPOKANE: "I am desirous that this matter of the tariff should be attended to without abuse."

Seattle: "If we ever fall so low that we will not protect our citizens we might as well haul down the flag. I am not too proud to fight."

Portland, Ore.: "It would be a breach of trust for the United States to abandon the Philippines at this time."

Roseburg, Ore.: "We must be sure that we do not leave unused the national powers which will give us national prosperity."

SAN FRANCISCO: "The people are entitled to the very best."

Oakland: "Wherever we have the government represented in regulation and supervision it must be signed to create a naval auxiliary and supervision that is an expert and square with the facts of business life."

San Diego: "I believe in preventing children from being drawn too early into the hardships of industrial life." (See Wilson's deeds of August 8 and 15.)

SOMEWHERE IN CALIFORNIA: "Mexico — Huerta — Policy recognition — intervention — shame — weak — conduct — American citizens — border — wrong joint American-Mexican commission — trouble — administration — to settle peacefully the differences between the countries."

Reno, Nev.: "We can have peace without trouble in this country."

Ogden, Utah: "Let us brace ourselves for the new era. Let us maintain the honor of the American name. Let us set the driving force of patriotic sentiment."

Cheyenne, Wyo.: "I believe we ought to have compensation acts in the senate amendments to the bill wisely and fairly provided—in order that those who work may be assured of proper protection."

DENVER: "I do not think there has been in many years a campaign in which business men, solicitors for the future of the country, should feel or have so deep an interest."

Estes Park, Colo.: Mr. Hughes goes into seclusion to rest from his arduous labors of his campaign of criticism.

Estes Park, Colo.:—Still resting—a game of golf—posing for the moving picture men—a musicale in the evening—resting.

Estes Park, Colo.: Mr. Hughes takes an automobile ride to Long's Peak Inn, 10,000 feet above the level of the sea, where he might obtain a bird's eye view of the "inactivities" of the President Wilson's administration.

Estes Park, Colo.:—Still resting—still laboring to avert a railroad strike, decides to go before congress and ask for arbitration and eight-hour laws.

Estes Park, Colo.: Mr. Hughes appears at a joint session of congress and asks for immediate legislation to avert a railroad strike and prevent such a crisis arising in the future. The president completes the administration's preparedness legislative program by signing the army and navy appropriation bills. He also signs the Philippine bill and the new bill of lading measure.

Estes Park, Colo.: Mr. Hughes, son still "on the job" in Washington—a 100 per cent president.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN TOMORROW—and taken to sea—in other words, he is shanghaied. Well, of course, Charlie has to work to earn his board and lodging and the manner in which he does it is enough to make an Egyptian mummy smile. The suggestion is made that as many as can should attend in the afternoon in order to avoid the evening crowds. The theater is open at 11 in the morning and the children attend in the mornings is always packed again tomorrow. In this good, other pictures will also be featured. Poor Charlie is kidnapped shown with this feature.

CARRANZA ISSUES CALL FOR GENERAL MEXICAN ELECTION

MEXICO CITY, Mex., Sept. 15.—General Carranza today issued a decree which paves the way for replacing the present de facto government with a solid constitutional government.

A revision of several of the most important articles of the plan of Guadalupe, drawn on December 12, 1914, is one of the plans outlined by Carranza. The decree also provides that each state and territory shall have a deputy to congress and allows a sub-deputy for every 70,000 inhabitants. States having a population beyond 70,000 will be allowed an extra deputy for every additional 20,000.

Carranza tomorrow will issue another document which will call for the election of members for a national congress. The election will take place on October 15 and the first session of congress will be on November 20, probably in Coahuila, a Mexico City suburb.

The decree will make it positive that those who opposed the constitutional government with arms cannot hold office.

The reformed constitution will be turned over to congress by Carranza with instructions to make it conform with the plans of the constitutional party. After he constitution has been adopted Carranza will call for the election of a president.

Mexico tomorrow will celebrate the anniversary of its independence.

GERMANS IN FRANKFORT CAN BUY CHEAP MEALS.

FRANKFORT, Sept. 15.—The Society for Social Welfare has opened a new restaurant which furnishes meals to about one thousand people daily at astonishingly low prices. A dinner consisting of soup, four ounces of meat, potatoes and other vegetables costs 15 cents, and without soup 12 1/2 cents. Persons not desiring meat can get half a pound of fish. For desert from three to five cents extra is charged, and for 1 1/2 cents a cup of bouillon or mutton broth can be obtained by those who only desire to take a light lunch.

The restaurant is very cozy and the service excellent. Spotless white linen covers all tables, which are also decorated with flowers. The kitchen is a model of neatness. During the next few weeks the society will open five other restaurants of this kind in different parts of the city.

PASS THEM ALONG.

"Pass on the good things, the happy experiences that come to you—never the unfortunate things. By the time we have come to realize our debt of gratitude, too often our benefactor has passed away and we cannot repay him. But let us do as he did—pass along all the good we can to others."—J. M.

THE GREATEST GOLF CHAMPION

"Chick" Evans of Chicago is now considered the greatest golf champion the United States has produced, for his winning of the amateur championship at Merion, Pa., made him both the open and amateur champion of the country. Robert Gardner was the amateur champion, and in this tournament he was defending crown. Evans, having won the open championship this year, was out to attach the amateur title. Evans' golf career began in 1907 when he won the western junior and intercollegiate titles. He was just one stroke behind Walter Hagen of Rochester, in the national open tournament at Midlothian last year. Hagen had 290 for the 72 holes. In the amateur at Detroit, D. E. Sawyer beat him by 6 up and 5 to play in the first round. About two months ago Evans outstripped a field containing the cream of the profession in the national open championship tournament at Minikahda, returning a 72-hole score of 288.

Giants Get 9 Games Straight

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—New York won another game here yesterday, defeating the Cincinnati Reds 3 to 1, for its ninth straight victory. Tesreau held the visitors to seven hits, while the fast base running Giants enabled them to score on Moseley, who also pitched well. The Giants stole seven bases, Herzog stealing three. New Faces to Show Up With St. Marys

Three new faces will be seen in the St. Marys lineup for Sunday's game. Huenke, the Athletics' speed demon, has made a complaint on the work of catcher Wilson. He states that he wants a more experienced man to catch him and his wish has been complied with. They have secured the services of catcher Boal, who played some time with the Dayton Central League club, to do the backstopping in Sunday's game. Boal is an old head at the business and it is quite positive that he will make a good mate for the visitors' slabster. Lefty Houtz, of Wapakoneta, who was with the Independents the early part of this season, will be stationed out in the left garden. Houtz will probably make a good addition to the team and will undoubtedly make a noticeable appearance with the stick. Dardio, who played short stop for the Athletics in last Sunday's game, will be shifted over to second, with "Chick" Wise, of Tippecanoe City, holding down the short field position. Baxter, who coveted second base last Sunday, will be forced out of the line-up.

SMILING WHITTED HOPES TO GET IN WORLD SERIES

He smiles. And not without reason, for he is Mr. George Whittied, who plays in the outfield for the Phillies, and every fan knows that the Phillies are very much in the race for the National league pennant. George is now batting somewhere near .280 and is holding in a remarkable manner. He broke into the game six years ago with a semi-pro team at Wadesboro, Md. In 1912 he came to the majors, joining the St. Louis Nationals. He remained with them the following year and spent 1914 with them and the Boston Braves. Last year he was shifted to the Phillies and took part in the world's series between the boys under Pat Moran and the Boston Red Sox.

ALABAMA CAPITAL MAY ABOLISH FREE SCHOOLS.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 14.—Free public schools, regarded as the pillar of the American republic, will no longer exist in Montgomery if the action of the board of education is sustained by the city commission. The board of education has announced that a tuition fee will be charged by the board for all pupils entering the schools. They say this is necessary in order to meet current expenses.

SHORT SPORT

The spotless ones from Chicago boom up today as about the best pennant contenders in the American league.

Five points separate the leading Red Sox, Tigers and White Sox. Either can hold or jump into the lead today.

The White Sox cut down the advantage when they trimmed the Nationals while the Red Sox and Tigers were beaten by the Browns and Yankees, respectively.

Nine straight for the Giants. But what's the use?

The Dodgers opened up the gay when they trimmed the Pirates, while the Phillies and Braves were being beaten by the Cardinals and Cubs.

Brooklyn again leads by 1 1-2 games.

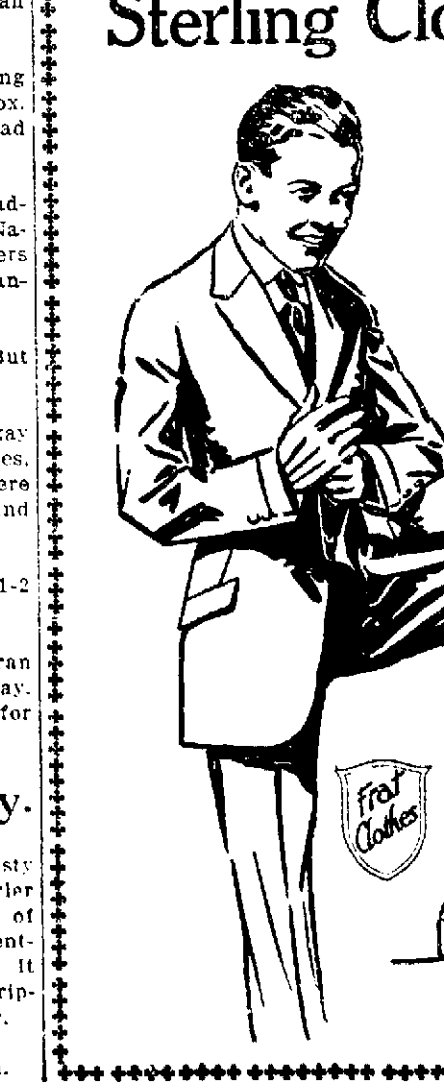

A horse named Brooklyn ran fourth at Havre de Grace yesterday. Is this a hunch or an ill omen for residents of the city of churches?

Picture for Christy.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Christy Mathewson former premier twirler of the Giants and now manager of the Cincinnati Reds will be presented today with a $1,000 painting. It is a gift of fandom, the subscriptions being made by a local paper.
